Consider donating your good, used waders or tackle to Wisconsin Trout Unlimited for the summer youth fishing camp. Good waders that do not leak are especially needed, those in larger shoe sizes are in short supply and desperately needed. Please contact Linn Beck at chlbeck@att.net

LONG-TIME TU MEMBER FINDS A HOME WITH ALCTU

By Mike Stapleton

ALCTU Board Member and Membership Chairman, Bob Moss is no newcomer to trout fishing or to TU. From chasing brookies in the tiny headwater creeks of New York's Adirondack Mountains as a teenager to occasional trips to New Mexico's San Juan River in recent years (pursuing somewhat larger quarry, as shown in the accompanying photo), Bob has lived and pursued trout in many locations throughout the country, finally retiring to Wisconsin which has long been one of his favorite places to live and fish.

His TU journey began about 35 years ago, here in Wisconsin, while attending college, where he became well acquainted with the Southern Wisconsin Chapter as well as the trout of Black Earth Creek. He immediately recognized the value and importance of the work TU was doing and immersed himself in the work projects and other activities of SWTU, serving as treasurer as well as an instructor for rod building and fly tying classes.

His profession required numerous relocations throughout the country, and he was fortunate enough to find a home stream near most of them. Wisconsin, however, remained at the top of his list, and upon relocating this last time, he was ready to resume an active role in TU, with ALCTU being the lucky beneficiary. Bob attended our fly tying class a few years ago to work some of the rust out of his tying skills, and has assisted with the classes ever since. He answered the call for a newly created position of Membership Chairman, and last year, when we found ourselves with a vacancy on the board of directors, he put his hand up once again.

Bob has been enjoying the benefits of retirement in his angling life, and in return for all he has learned over the years from TU'ers and other anglers he has made a commitment to give back to his chosen sport. He recognizes that TU members are a special group of people sharing their time, expertise and resources to protect and improve the future of trout fishing for everyone. He is proud to be one of us, and we are pleased to have him on our team.

IMPROVED HWY 130 ACCESS TO BEAR CREEK

ALCTU along with contributing partners' dollars, funded a pull-over/parking area on Hwy 130 for access to Bear Creek. Wisconsin DOT approved the request, Sauk County was hired to do the work. This was a "safety" nice-to-have that the chapter board felt was important to obtain. "Thank you," to all of you who made this happen.

AUTUMN 2016

IN THE LOOP

By Scott Allen

President, Aldo Leopold Chapter

Fall, it's that time of year to put the fishing rods away and to "put firewood up." While loading firewood into my truck recently a Sheriff's Deputy stopped to chat, "Getting ready for winter," she asked. "Actually, I'm getting ready for next winter," I responded half truthfully. After a pleasant exchange she continued on her way and I was left thinking about "the future of things" — trout streams, community projects, youth education — remembering that they all will need to be revisited, not this winter but during other seasons for years ahead.

A sizeable addition to North Branch of Honey Creek in Sauk County has been purchased by Wisconsin Society of Ornithology (WSO) and has been added to the Honey Creek Preserve, near Leland. At the invitation of WSO President, Michael John Jaeger I joined him recently for a hike of the acquired stream length through a bucolic valley framed in sandstone bluffs and fringed with relic hemlock forest. Trout and beaver served as docents for the day and John and I left knowing they will care for the valley until the day arrives for TU and WSO to revisit with habitat projects in mind.

We are very fortunate to have Riverland Conservancy, owner of Merrimac Preserve through which brook trout stream Manley Creek meanders, as an informal partner in the continued habitat and recreational improvements planned for years to come. Executive Director Linda Lynch recently announced Manley Creek the recipient of upwards of $50,000 in grants to be applied to stream habitat improvements, repairs and restoration. Discussions are occurring for a board walk along the stream bank which will double as angler access and a "trout walk" with educational signage for youth and the public. Funding sources are being pursued for developing techniques for the control of canary grass along the stream bank, a pestilent grass which too often brings fishing season to a close months too early.

2017 ALCTU FLY TYING CLASS

Autumn was wonderful this year, but now that winter has slammed the door on us, you might switch over to a football & basketball mode, or — it might occur to you that it's time to refill the fly boxes and gear up for 2017. Experienced tiers may already be hard at it, but inexperienced tiers or non-tiers who would like to learn may be wondering how to take advantage of the “off” season. Never fear, the free ALCTU 2017 Fly-Tying Course is (almost) here.

The 2017 classes will be held in Portage, where we had great participation in 2014 and 2015, and they will again take place at the Portage Public Library. ALCTU will supply all materials for the class and will also have a limited number of fly tying kits available for those who do not yet have their own equipment. The course will consist of five two-hour sessions, beginning on Wednesday, January 25, 6:00-8:00 PM, with subsequent classes on February 1, 8, 15, and 22 (all Wednesdays).

The class will be limited to 15 students, so those who are interested should reserve a spot right away. Students under 17 years old must be accompanied by an adult. To register, e-mail Mike Stapleton at mikestapleton22@gmail.com (preferred), or call Mike evenings at 608-742-3665. This is not limited to TU members, so if you know of someone who might be interested, let them know, too.

TU's popular Trout In The Classroom youth education program may have funding for additional classrooms in 2017-2018. As the teachers become comfortable with the curriculum, mechanics and habitat of the installed aquarium, we will be less active with that classroom, but ALCTU is planning to work with other schools in the years ahead. Currently there are three schools in Sauk County with Trout In The Classroom curricula that ALCTU has participated wholly or in part, I hope to expand to Columbia and Dodge Counties in successive years.

Tight lines!

ALCTU RECEIVES FRIENDS OF TU GRANT FOR LITTLE WILLOW CREEK

Aldo Leopold Chapter received a Friends of TU grant for $2,000.00 to be used for habitat improvement on Little Willow Creek in Richland County. Little Willow is a small tributary of the well-known fishing destination, Willow Creek in eastern Richland County. The project area has a permanent public access easement, is north and south of Anderson Road near Highway NN and encompasses about one half mile of stream. The improvements include bank stabilization with rock and creation of plunge pools for brook trout habitat. Partners in the project are Richland County, Natural Resources Conservation Service and Southeastern Wisconsin TU.

WISCONSIN COUNCIL ANNUAL AWARDS AND FUND-RAISING BANQUET, FEBRUARY 4TH

Don't miss the annual Wisconsin Council Banquet this February 4th in Oshkosh. Tickets are $35.00 and if purchased before December 31st you will receive ten free bucket raffle tickets! There is far more excellent merchandise than can be listed here so make the trip to Oshkosh to browse, bid and socialize.

To purchase a ticket, contact Scott Allen at jscottallen12@gmail.com or 608-495-1482. After December 31st tickets will only be available at the door on February 4th.

FLY TYING CLASSES IN PORTAGE FOR 2017, EVERYONE IS WELCOME

Fly tying classes will return to Portage at the Public Library, 253 Edgewater Street, beginning Wednesday evening January 25th and continuing for the following four Wednesdays. Although the various fly patterns taught are presented at the beginner level all skill levels are encouraged to attend to either tie or lend a hand. We will also be tying flies to be added to a fly box for the picnic silent auction fund raiser in June, please join us and add a few flies to help your chapter. Dates are Wednesdays: January 25th, February 1st, 8th, 15th and 22nd. A make-up date is scheduled for March 1st. To reserve a place in the class, please contact Mike Stapleton at mikestapleton22@gmail.com or 608-742-3665.
